PROVEN SWAMP-ROOT
AIDS WEAK KIDNEYS

The symptoms of kidney and bladder troubles are often very distressing and leave the system in a run-down condition. The kidney seems to suffer most, as almost every victim complains of lame back and urinary trouble which should not be neglected, as these danger signals often lead to more dangerous kidney troubles.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root which, so many people say, soon heals and strengthens the kidneys, is a splendid kidney, liver and bladder medicine, and, being an herbal compound, has a gentle healing effect on the kidneys, which is almost immediately noticed in most cases by those who use it.

A trial will convince anyone who may be in need of it. Better get a bottle from your nearest drug store, and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail

Mrs. H. H. Lindorf.

In olden days men sought the Holy Grail and some, like Sir Lancelot, found it in the end, in the hands of the needy at their own doors.

Do you know that today in the once beautiful birthplace of our Lord, starving peoples beg us to fill this Holy cup, in His name, for the relief of the most appalling need on record.

Mayor Mitchell of New York, stated in his Thanksgiving proclamation there are over 2,500,000 of these men, women and children in Palestine, Armenia and Syria who starve, 400,000 alone are orphans. President Wilson has appealed to the Americans and tells us of a total of 2,000,000 destitute.

Newly born babes die of exposure, having no covering. Poor little children by the roadsides gnaw at dead things ravenously. Desperate mothers pick at roots and grasses and suffer untold agonies. There are no bread winners. The whole country is crying out in their great need—"Save, in His name, Oh Save!"

There is no family in Janesville too poor or too deaf not to heed this appeal. We and our children all have something. Your little boy or your little girl do not need to gnaw at dead things. You have something; they have nothing. Will you not share with them? These poor little folks, in the Holy Land?

Ten cents will save one life one day; three dollars will save one life one month. And it will surely reach them if you will sign the coupon below and bring it with your sacrifice—your contribution—be it five dollars, or ten cents, or one cent, to the Gazette office, now. You will then become a member of the "Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail" and receive a certificate of membership, and you will for all time that you have brought a token to the Christ child this Christmas. May there be one or more in every home. Go it now. Let us give and give and still give, if it is necessary. Everybody!

P. S.—Other stations for your contributions are mentioned below.

Clip and send or bring to any designated depositor.

Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail

Enclosed my contribution for the cause of humanity and for membership to the Knights and Ladies of the Holy Grail. I will interest other people also in this wonderful work. Leave your donation at Gazette, any of the four Janesville Banks, or at any Janesville Drug Stores.

CONFESSES TO SALE OF WATCH AND CHAIN

Ernest Maurer Admits Selling Watch and Chain Secured from Mrs. Martha Randall at St. Charles Hotel. District Attorney Stanley Dunwidie examined Ernest Maurer, of Monroe, in municipal court this morning before Judge Maxfield, relative to the charge of receiving and selling stolen property, but the examination was held to ascertain the nature of the sentence to be given him. Judge Maxfield asked the defendant, relative to his actions and the actions of Miss Plea Morton and Ed Lewis, who are also implicated in the case. The sentencing of Maurer was then set over on Monday. From the evidence given, it seems that the three were implicated in the stealing of the watch and chain, and the judge desires additional information before the final sentence is passed.

Plea Morton, the young girl, who took the watch and chain from the St. Charles Hotel, according to Maurer, was in the court, but her evidence was not taken. According to the statement given in court by Maurer, Lewis, Plea Morton and himself were in the room at the time the article was stolen, but that they were not taken with the idea of stealing them at that time.

The trial of Lewis has not been set. Due to the fact that he will be represented by the district attorney from Monroe, and a satisfactory date has not been determined. Miss Morton is being represented by attorney Edward Peterson.

Three men, charged with drunkenness were also in court this morning. Michael McHenry made his first appearance in the court on Monday, and promised to leave the city that day, but he took a few farewell drinks before he left and the police gathered him in again. The judge this morning fined him $25 and costs, which he could not pay, with the result that he will spend thirty days in Janesville, the guest of the sheriff at the county jail.

Ed. Reilly, of Fond du Lac, paid a fine of ten dollars and costs. Reilly had been working at the best sugar factory until it closed last week, and since that time he has been spending his money on liquor.

James Fitzgerald of Peoria, Ill., also paid a fine of eight dollars when he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of being drunk.

GEORGE J. KELLOGG
WRITES TO HIS FRIENDS

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 8.

I am hungry for some home news; would appreciate a daily or weekly now and then. I am located perhaps permanently here at this address, as the state historical society has just appointed a "strawberry trial station" with me. My son-in-law, H. C. McPherson, and my oldest daughter have bought a home and half acre just outside the city limits. I got here from my summer trip the last of September; helped my daughter make her peony beds and her rose border; then made a strawberry bed, spending 18 inches deep, planting a large amount of manure between the surface and subsoil, ready to fork over in the spring.

I hope this boy's job will not be too much for me. I spent the day making the bed, doing a better job than I ever did, and hope it will be a success. I got four kinds of plants of the Garner company, Osage Iowa, that cannot be bought for a thousand dollars each here and I got from the "Minnesota state breeding farm" many varieties I wish that are not yet distributed, and any others, besides raspberries, etc.

We have just closed a very successful meeting of the fifty-first annual meeting of the state society; changed presidents; Prof. R. S. McIntosh is now elected. He takes the place of T. E. Cashman, who has been a splendid officer for seven years.

The show of 1,000 plates of fruit, apples, grapes and nuts, was most wonderful; besides the many sacks, bushels and barrels of choice apples. The program was too full, but I think of the fifty-six persons on the program only six failed to be on time. William Toole, Sr., of Daraboo, was the delegate from the Wisconsin society. N. A. Rasmussen of Oshkosh, Wis., was also in attendance, and was listened to and cheered whenever he addressed the convention. Membership for the society for 1917 was 3,195 paid annual one dollar members, 409 life members. There are sixteen trial stations and twelve auxiliary societies. Many hundreds of dollars were paid in premiums and perfect harmony prevails in the whole society.

We have had a beautiful weather. We had two snow storms in October, which all vanished. A snow fall the first part of this week of four inches bids fair to remain; zero one morning, this morning 10 below. Bright sun all this forenoon, with two very large "sun dogs," indicating more cold and snow.

URGE PLANTING OF GARDENS IN STATE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 11.—"Every foot of ground a war garden in 1918." This was one of a large number of slogans as the Wisconsin Horticultural Society met today for its annual convention here.

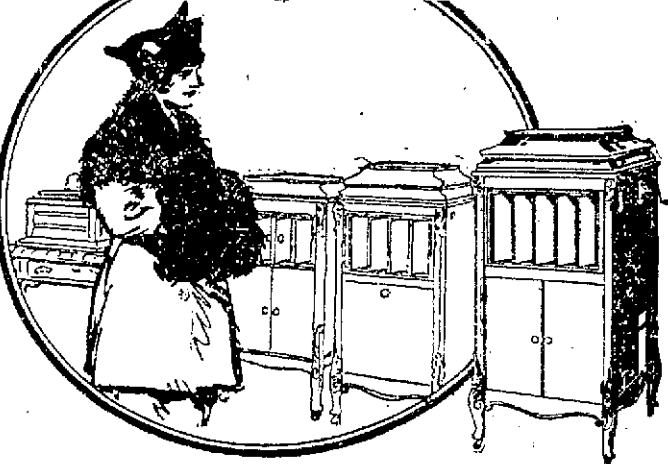

The society plans to execute big things during the winter months with a view to making Wisconsin war gardens the talk of the nation next year. "There was little opportunity to get under way after war was declared last April," said C. D. Adams, Milwaukee county agricultural agent, before the session. "The society plans to start early with the work and have every garden working hard next year." Delegates from Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota were welcomed after the opening address this morning.

James Livingston opened the fireworks with an address on "Amateur Gardening in America."

"What Next?" was the subject of William Toole, Sr., of Baraboo, who was followed on the morning program by J. J. Mauser, Axel Johnson, Cecil Britt and Prof. F. A. Aust. To night the women will "dig in." The subject for general discussion will be "How Our Women Can Help Win the War in Horticulture and in the Home." Mrs. N. H. Morgan, Miss A. L. Marlatt, Mrs. C. E. Strong and Miss Louise Tillson are on the evening program. Mrs. J. J. Ibrig will tell of "War Garden Work in Oshkosh in 1917 and Plans for 1918." The convention will be in session through Thursday.

How to Decide What Price to Pay

IF you knew how willing every Columbia Grafonola dealer is that you should come into his store and look and listen and experiment and play records on various priced instruments, until you were sure that you had decided on the price that you wanted to pay, you would never think of reaching a decision in any other place but a Columbia salesroom.

We want you to note the difference in the Grafonolas, the difference in finishes, the difference in prices. Play the same record on different instruments, play different records on the same instrument—come to your conclusion.

Above all things have no hesitation about visiting the Columbia dealer and playing records and having records played as many times as you feel like before you buy. The more you know about the Columbia Grafonola, the higher the chances will become that it is the phonograph that you will finally decide to buy.

But whether you are ready to buy a phonograph now or not, by all means visit the Columbia dealer and hear the Columbia Grafonola played. Do this, if for no other reason than because of our assurance that you'll be made welcome there.

Columbia Grafonolas are made in a large number of models, with the widest range of prices in the phonograph field.

REFRESHING NEWS.

Night in the midst of our talk of search for the alien enemy within our gates the following item sent out by the treasury department shows the spirit of some of our foreign-born citizens that is most encouraging. Eight here in Rock county, were the truth known, to have little coteries of foreign-born citizens who came here to escape oppression in their native lands, who have sworn allegiance to this nation, who have lived here and prospered and yet gather in secret conclaves and say things that are most treacherous to the nation that has welcomed them and given them protection.

Consequently this little story of the one man cited and what he did is an example of what may be expected of others.

Wilhelm Kaiser did it. Not, of course, Wilhelm, Kaiser of Potsdam, but Wilhelm Kaiser, an alien enemy in the eyes of the law and a draftsman for the American Red Cross company. Wilhelm bought a $500 war bond in the best Liberty Loan drive and made a speech that brought everyone of his party fellow employees in as a subscriber to the loan. It happened at the company's plant at West North street and Princeton avenue, Chicago, in the drafting department. But Wilhelm Kaiser was not drafted.

"Fellow employees," said he, "I am an alien enemy. I came to the United States just before the war broke out in Europe. I am registered with the United States government in order that I may work here. But I like America. I have made good money here and I feel that because of the war I have been treated here, I should do my part, like you American citizens, in helping to make the loan a success."

After Wilhelm Kaiser had done his part toward nothing, Wilhelm, the Kaiser, J. D. Dickert, bond subscription leader, collected $4,350 in subscriptions among Wilhelm's fellow draftsman. There were just forty in the room and forty subscribers.

Elsewhere in Chicago, another German, whose name is withheld at the request of government officials, bought a $50 bond on the same day that Wilhelm Kaiser showed where his heart lay, and talked on of his fellow countrymen into lending Uncle Sam their money. This German was not only an alien enemy, but was a paroled sailor from one of the interned German commerce raiders. Several of the Germans he brought into the room could not speak English, and not one of them was a citizen of this country.

WAR OF SCIENCE.

French officers who have inspected the beginnings of our aviation work express themselves as much pleased with our thorough system of inspection and repairs. It has been the experience of the French aviation schools that several beginners are killed each week in practice flying. Our beginners now are having very few accidents.

The secret of safety is a very high grade of mechanical work. All depends on the engine. As long as that works, the aviator with any decent control is safe. When the engine gives way, he is done. Controlling a plane is of course more difficult than running an automobile, as the aviator must learn to deal with air currents.

But a pupil after fifteen hours with an instructor is commonly allowed to go up alone. After five hours solo flights, he then may get his certificate admitting him to the aerial reserve. This is not much longer than it takes many people to learn to run an automobile.

The main thing is to make an aviator a good mechanic. He must be taught to take down and reassemble his engine. He should not have to spend his own time and energy doing repair work. But he will have to do some hasty emergency work on forced landings away from his hangars. Also he needs to know whether the repair men are doing the job right or not. He must be able to assure himself from personal inspection that the machine is right before he attempts a flight.

Also the report comes from France that too little care is taken over there in teaching men to land skillfully. A man may get a fatal fall from landing in a tree twenty-five feet high, as well as from a drop of ten thousand feet. If it learns how to judge landing places from above, and how to put the machine right where he wants it, he will avoid many perils.

MR. SLICE O' BREAD.

I am a Slice of Bread.
 I measure three inches by two-and-a-half, and my thickness is half an inch.

My weight is exactly an ounce.
 I am wasted once a day by 48,000,000 people of Britain.

I am "the bit left over"; the slices eaten absent-mindedly when really I wasn't needed; I am the waste crust.

If you collected me and my companions for a whole week you would find that we amounted to 9,360 tons of good bread.

WASTED!

Wasted! Loads of Good Bread!
 Almost as much—striking an average—as twenty German submarines could sink—even if they had good luck.

When you throw me away or waste me you are adding twenty submarines to the German navy.

GERMAN FAKES.
 The American people have never been very strong on green goods games. They will not swallow many of the brands the German spies are putting out. When they find fake letters left around in public places telling of terrible losses undergone by American troops, they laugh at the childishness of such attempts to deceive. The plotters would better emigrate to Russia where the people drink in such stuff.

Also when you hear these alarming tales about what the government is going to do in commandeering food supplies, or about exhaustion of certain foods, it is best to use some common sense about it.

A great many sound banks can be broken if everyone demands his money at once. Any food supply can be cornered if people all stock up away ahead of the news of real happenings as they appear in the newspapers. They will come out much better than if they listen to the fake yarns started by stealthy enemies.

Now that a Russian general has been killed by being thrown off a railroad train, the Russian officers will learn that they must implicitly obey the commands the private soldiers give them.

The German papers will be allowed to comment freely on President Wilson's message provided they haven't read any of it.

About now a lot of people will turn up at Washington to show how the war can be won by buying their goods.

It is reported that some of the sufferers from the sugar shortage can get but a half pound of candy daily.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA.

When you hear some fellow yelling of disasters, joy dispelling, or some stranger starts to murmur in a meandering way, That this fine old Yankee nation is the goat of all creation, That will carry all the burdens and will have the bills to pay, Give no heed unto his whining; it's your grit he's undermining. Either foolishly or cunningly he's peddling vicious slander. He's the goat or spy, all, that is working for the Kaiser; You'll bet the yarns he's spinning are all German propaganda.

When some wild-eyed sad alarmer, be he merchant, clerk or farmer, Comes and tells you ghastly stories of a troopship sunk at sea, faster, of some vague suppressed disaster, Or he hints of dreadful horrors that are some day sure to be, Do not let your courage buckle, keep your nerve and keep your chuckle, Keep your faith in Uncle Sammel and this nation's chief commander; You can bet your last white collar, and your one remaining dollar, That the dismal lies he's telling are all German propaganda.

Now these gruesome tales are flying, and the air is full of such lying. They have sunk our soldiers' honor as they strike across the seas. They have told, and will tell others, many lies to frighten mothers. And they'd undermine our manhood with their hintings at disease.

We are fighting with a vandal, ruthless he, with fear and scandal. And his favorite weapon's falsehood in the shape of honest candor. But whenever you're told a story, that would stain our country's glory, Never tell it to another, for it's German propaganda.

AFTER WAR IS OVER

GEORGE E. MACILWAIN TELLS TWILIGHT CLUB MEMBERS THAT STRENUOUS TIMES ARE AHEAD FOR COUNTRY.

REVOLUTION PROBABLE

Advocates the importation to Northern States of Southern Negroes as Solution to Present Shortage of Labor.

In an interesting and instructive address on "Conditions After the War," illustrated by actual statistics, George E. Macilwain, speaking to members of the Twilight Club at their gathering last evening, predicted a period of business depression when peace is finally declared, the like of which this country has never seen. Mr. Macilwain, in his position as executive secretary of the National Statistical Organization of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, has studied labor conditions in this country for many years and is well qualified to make predictions as to the condition of business and labor at the close of the great war.

Mr. Macilwain, after being introduced by Mr. George St. Patrick, in his talk by showing a chart which he explained showed the steady increase in prosperity in this country during the past fourteen years. The diagram showed that the prosperity had been becoming greater. He continued in part:

"So long as this war continues, we shall have this remarkable prosperity, but as soon as the war is over, there will be a short peace boom, there will be a lull in business. Statistics compiled by our organization show that for every period of prosperity there is a corresponding period of depression which comes as a reaction. We hear men talk of an era of big things when this war is over—of rebuilding the countries of Europe, and yet they only begin to realize how wretchedly poor the people of those belligerent countries are, and that they will be unable to rebuild on only a very small scale.

"In taking up the labor question, there are many points to consider. One of these, and perhaps the most important, is the fact that at the present time there is a serious shortage of labor in this country. This fact is well known to everyone. Due to the tremendous increase in production necessary to carry on the war, and the tremendous number of men under arms, the labor supply is extremely scant. Is there a remedy for this condition? To my mind, there is only one source of relief in sight and that is the transplanting of an enormous number of southern negroes to the northern states to work in factories. There is a great oversupply of labor in the south which could be utilized in the north as a solution to the present difficult problem. This would also be a positive advantage to the south to get rid of this surplus labor.

"In order to accomplish this great task, however, it will be necessary to allow the negroes to join the different unions. At the present time, negroes cannot do such an extent that they are obliged to take jobs as porters when they could take a better one. But recently, the Federation of Labor took steps toward accomplishing this end which promise to work out as a solution to this problem. I wish to draw your attention to the demand and the mood of the labor market. In the past three years the increase in wages has covered the whole country while the increase in the cost of living during the same period of time is about seventy per cent, or double. The wages have increased, but the cost of living has come largely as a result of the demands of labor. I think there is justification then in the fact that in the present year there has been a strike, six thousand strikes in this country, as a result of this difference in increases.

"Figures compiled in Detroit recently show that the average cost of living for a workman is $1200, while the cost of living for himself, his wife and child, is $1485. One solution of this problem is for the laboring man not to get married or if he does to get his wife working. The only practical solution, however, is an increase in wages of the laboring man.

"Another reason which necessitates a wage increase is the growth of the labor union. Laborers are no longer content with the conditions under which they worked in the Lowell mills in 1855. They demand things better. And in the future, things will be better for hope and encouragement. There is not another single element more promising among the laboring classes today than this desire to better themselves.

"The two days to come, after peace is declared, there is going to be widespread discontent among American labor. There will be wage demands, and a general strike in the price of food commodities. But wages are bound to be reduced long before the price of food decreases. This will result in strikes of serious nature. They will be strikes of serious nature, despairing and disheartened bunch of men.

"There are two great problems confronting us at the present time—the railroad question and the street car question. Both will be when peace is declared, no single menace as great as the labor problem. The strikes, which are bound to come, may result in bloodshed and perhaps in revolution. What are we going to do to stem this disaster? Our wage system must be changed. It is radically wrong. There are three phases to the problem—capital, management and labor. The demands of capital can be easily met by the payment of the six or seven per cent interest required. But the dispute between management and management must be settled by a division of the profits.

"This can best be accomplished by selling stock to employees, thus allowing them to share the profits of the business. The plan worked out by the Firestone Tire people is worthy of consideration as a probable solution. At the present time, twenty per cent of the stock of this company is owned by the employees, and it is predicted that within a few years, fifty-one per cent will be in the hands of them. Labor won't get what it wants until something of this nature is done in some of the big concerns. The question cannot be met merely by an increase in wages, but must be solved by this profit-sharing plan.

"There is one fundamental thing which the middle-class of people must bear in mind—that there are two sides to the labor question. At the time of the strike in Wall Street, ship-builders in Wall Street recently, their patriotism and go back to work and not desert the country at this critical time? Gentlemen, there are thousands great reason for these five thousand men striking, but most people did not stop to realize this. The men demanded that they be given a share in the profits which were being made by the twelve men who owned the ship-building company. The strike was finally settled by Endicott, who recommended that an investigation be made by government officials to consider the advisability of taking this step. In this case, as in others, the people took the side of the employers, unjustly. Matters must be changed. Necessity stares us in the face to recognize both sides of all labor questions.

ROCK COUNTY WILL HAVE TWO DICTATORS

Beloit and Janesville Will Each Have a Food Dictator—Too Much Work for One.

F. P. Starr, corresponding secretary of the County Council of Defense, by direction of Food Administrator Magnus Swenson is aiding in organizing county food administration for Rock county.

As Rock county contains two quite large cities one administrator could hardly take care of both cities, hence an administrator will be appointed for each city. Mr. Starr states in brief the duties and qualifications as follows:

"Under each food administrator a committee on prices will be appointed a garbage committee and such other committees as are needed. The duties of these food administrators will be to see that the rules and regulations of the food administration are obeyed and report delinquents to the state food administrator. The office will be filled by men who are willing to give considerable of their time to the work and one whom the public has absolute confidence in as they will be called upon to fix prices on staple foods and other important matters that may be decided from time to time.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Edward A. Johnson. After a long illness, Mrs. Edward A. Johnson passed away last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schnell, of heart trouble. Mrs. Johnson had been a patient of the Beloit hospital for some time and was cheerful and hopeful to the last. She was recently brought home from Rochester, Minn., where she underwent treatment. All that loving care and skillful attention could do to restore her health and relieve her suffering was given.

Genevieve Schnell Johnson was born in 1887 in Janesville, Wis. She was married November 1909 to Edward Johnson. For several years Mr. and Mrs. Johnson resided in Seattle, Wash., returning to Janesville later, and have resided in Belvidere for the last five years.

Mrs. Johnson attended the Janesville high school and taught in the Janesville Business college as well as in commercial school in Spokane, Wash. She had a pleasing disposition and was greatly esteemed by all who knew her.

Besides her husband and little daughter Helen Jessie, she leaves to mourn her loss a sister, Mrs. Fay Eddington of Rockford, and hosts of friends in this locality.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. She will be buried in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. J. A. Van Wagner. Word has come to the friends of the death of Mrs. J. A. Van Wagner, on Sunday, November 25, at her home in Carthage, Missouri. Mrs. Van Wagner was the pastor of the First Congregational church of Carthage, Mo., for many years ago. Perhaps there are not many now in the community who will remember this family, but those who do will recall Mrs. Van Wagner and her devoted husband.

She was a devoted wife and mother and a support and helper to her husband in his pastoral labors. The particulars of her last sickness and death have not come to hand. Her husband will be assured of the sympathy of those in Janesville who knew him and his esteemed wife.

Mrs. Marie Diamond. The funeral of Mrs. Marie Diamond, who passed away Monday noon, will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock from the United Brethren church. The Rev. C. R. Beasmore will officiate. Mrs. Diamond was born in Watertown, Wisconsin, January 26, 1862. Her loss will be mourned by her many friends and relatives. She was survived by her father, William Paskey, three brothers, Henry Paskey of Chicago, and Herman and Fred Paskey of Sun Prairie, and six sisters, Mrs. Reichle and Mrs. and Mrs. C. H. Cieser at Rockford, Ill., Mrs. Sisson of Hanover, Mrs. Walbridge of Sun Prairie, and Mrs. C. E. Ward of this city.

Mrs. Ida Huggins. This morning the spirit of Mrs. Ida Huggins was called by the Maker. She died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Gieser, 407 Western avenue. Mrs. Huggins had been ill for many years, but her demise will leave an empty place in the hearts of her many friends. She was born February 27, 1855, in Janesville, and had resided here ever since. Her maiden name was Ida B. Kapke, and in 1895, she was married to Mr. Huggins, who preceded her in death twelve years ago. Mrs. Huggins is survived by two sisters, Mrs. John Shields and Mrs. Albert Gieser at Rockford, Ill., and one brother, Will Kapke.

The funeral services will be held at the Oak Hill chapel Thursday afternoon. The pallbearers will be: John Shields, Fred Tall, Edward, Louis and Albert Gieser.

Richard Paul Skelly. The funeral of Richard Paul Skelly the five months old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Skelly, was held this morning at ten o'clock from the St. Patrick's church. The many friends of the bereaved parents showed their sympathy by sending many beautiful flowers. Father William A. Mahoney conducted the service. Interment was made in the Mt. Olivet cemetery.

STATE GUARD WILL DRILL ON WEDNESDAY

Regular Drill Period at Seven-Thirty Wednesday evening. No. High School Drill this Evening.

Under the direction of Lieutenant Harry Dutcher, who acted as drill-master, the regular drill for the State Guard was held last evening at the armory. With one or two exceptions every member of the company was present to take part in the snappy work which was given them.

After a few of the men who had been absent from several drills were put in the instruction squad, the remainder of the company went through some stiff marching drills, and before the evening was over they were marching like veterans. Due to the fact that Lieutenant Dutcher will be able to be in the city on Wednesday the company are anxious to get all the drill work possible, the company will meet on Wednesday evening at seven-thirty for an hour of drill.

Following the drill a dance will be given for the benefit of the state guard. A jazz orchestra will furnish the music. Due to the large crowds which attend the dances it has been decided to hold a prize watch contest.

Tonight a Wednesday afternoon and evening the benefit performances at the Majestic theater will be given for the high school students in their efforts to secure funds with which to purchase uniforms for their two companies. Due to this fact the regular drill which was to have been held this evening has been postponed.

Selection of officers to handle the two high school companies will take place on Wednesday afternoon at four-thirty o'clock. The selections of the two captains, two first lieutenants, two second lieutenants and the two first sergeants will be made from the ranks of the high school members of the company having an equal opportunity of gaining the place. Lieutenant Dutcher will have charge of the competitive work and will make the selections of the men.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Myrtle Stedman, the popular Paramount star, who is on a tour of the leading picture theaters throughout the United States and Canada, has received hundreds of letters asking when she will return to the screen. In reply Myrtle has written that she can't give any definite date, as she does not know how soon her tour will end. In nearly every city where she has appeared she has had to lengthen her stay there, due to popular demand.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Well, when Daddy Fox saw that Billy Bunny wouldn't believe that the better was for him, even though it had a picture of a fox on the envelope, he gave a terrible growl and tore it open. And then he gave a low whistle, as if he felt very badly.

"What's the matter?" asked Billy Bunny, nearly scared to death.

"The man says in the letter that he has a lot of chickens to sell," said Daddy Fox, "but how can I buy them? I haven't got any money."

"I don't know, I'm sure," said Billy Bunny.

"Then I'll just eat you up instead!" cried Daddy Fox. And he would have, too, if Mr. Bear hadn't come along just then.

"What are you doing?" shouted Mr. Bear, giving Daddy Fox a whack with his great big paw. After that Daddy Fox didn't feel like touching Billy Bunny. No, three and a no, three, mam! He just slunk away to his den with his long bushy tail between his legs.

When Billy Bunny reached the Old Mill Pond he hopped out on the ice just a little ways, for he wasn't quite sure how strong it was. You see, Mr. Happy Sun had been shining down pretty hard, and the ice looked very watery and shaky. Then Billy Bunny characterization takes precedence. Charles Ray states that it is necessary for an artist to actually feel his or her part and forget individuality. William Farnum is always original and sincere. He says that no artist can be a successful photographer unless he thoroughly believes that his work for the screen is as important as his work on the stage would be. If he thinks he is taking like the movies for a change he is going to be a failure and serves him right!

Mary Pickford's opinion is always worth something. She knows that it is better to be a successful actress, a girl who is an ACTRESS who acts as though she were NOT acting. To get the gist of this, see Little Mary.

Little Bird Markey, whose work in "Rallying the Boys" will bring her strongly into the limelight, says "Study and then more study, and oh! one must be really ambitious. It seems to me that nothing can be made successful if one has not that ambition."

Myrtle Stedman is very serious when she says that to ensure any success on the screen one must be entirely sincere and work very hard. Success never comes easy, and when it does, carelessness creeps in and success flies.

Gracie Wilbur, who is now alternating screen work and stage acting, is a believer in sound training and sharp intelligence combined with a thorough knowledge of the drama. He is quite a student and is always in earnest.

Don't Fairbanks says, "Simple enough—you just DO IT—that's all."

TO MOTHERS

The Red Cross Needs Your Help to Save Women and Babies in Europe and to Care for Our Soldiers.

Dear Mothers: Surely you will do what you can to relieve the sufferings of motherless, orphaned, and abandoned children of war-torn Europe. Ragged, starving, freezing, tuberculous women and babies who for three years have endured the horrors of hell. They are your sisters and your children. The end is not yet for them. Think what they must go through this winter. Think of your own children and your little ones here in America, safe and comfortable.

In the trenches "over there" are millions of men undergoing indescribable hardship and suffering and death to save the liberty-loving world from the knifer and the sword. Think of them. Remember they are standing between you and the fate that Godless, "kultured" mad Germany poured upon the women and children of horrible France, Belgium, Italy, Poland, and Roumania.

Of course you cannot go to Europe and nurse and feed and clothe and shelter these suffering soldiers. But the American Red Cross is over there doing it—the noblest labor in the world's history. Our Red Cross is nursing and feeding and clothing and sheltering them. And it is conducting thousands of hospitals and ambulance lines and comfort stations for American soldiers and the soldiers of our allies.

Yet the Red Cross cannot do enough because it hasn't half enough members. Therefore a campaign is being made to get fifteen million members by Christmas eve. It is an honor to belong to the organization. You will join, won't you? You will see that your husband enrolls, and that each of the children is enrolled. Membership costs $1.00. An additional dollar brings the Red Cross Magazine for a year.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have which is parishable. I would suggest that you correspond with a young lady for the last three years. During that time we have grown to love each other, although my meager salary prevented me from asking her to become engaged. As I felt I could not afford a ring.

Now I am about to go into the army the first of the year and would like very much to know if it would be all right to ask her to become engaged at this time?

(2) I have been to see her several times and while in her city her folks always insist on staying in their home. I shall go again about a week before Christmas, at which time I intend to present the ring.

How much should a diamond cost to be reasonable?

(3) Who should pick out the ring?

(4) Also please state what would be proper for a boy to give a girl as a Christmas gift?

We are both twenty-two years old.

(1) Certainly it would be all right to ask her to become engaged now.

(2) Diamonds are very, very expensive now—they cost about $250 a carat. You could get one that would be for about $50, but it would not be a high class diamond.

Don't worry about the ring. If the girl loves you she will be willing to have anything or to wait until you return from war.

(3) The man.

(4) If he is engaged it is all right to give her anything he wants to—even jewelry. If he is not engaged he should confine his choice to candy, flowers, books, or something else.

Those After Christmas Colds.

Did you ever notice what a crop of grippe and colds and bronchitis, etc., sprang up just after Christmas? Last year I was shopping the day after Christmas and I noticed to me that every other shop girl was moping at her nose, or discharging a million germs a minute in one of those deadly attacks on all bystanders, known as colds.

Also I had what felt like the beginnings of a cold myself.

And I was informed on my return that my next door neighbor had bronchitis.

And that the lady across the way had grippe.

My suspicions were correct.

And the next day my suspicions about my own cold proved horribly correct.

This is not exactly an inspiring chronicle.

But it had a reason for being.

I think that miserably cold and unhealthiness came from just one cause—we had gotten overtired.

We had left too much until the last minute and we had so worn ourselves out that the shop girls—oh that Christ-

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

(Miss Hoyt was answered in this paper all questions on matters of etiquette addressed to her in care of this paper. If a personal answer is desired enclose a two-cent stamp.)

Never chew food with the mouth open, nor make any noises when eating.

MRS. K.: There are a few general rules to follow in clearing the table between courses, if one wishes to have correct service; do not remove the knives and spoons from the dishes before clearing them away; never set a dish on another; but remove them separately; take the plate or principle dish from the table first, and then the smaller serving dishes and then the individual dishes.

Two of the large ones can be carried at a time—one in each hand—and the smaller ones can be collected on a tray. Before the dessert is served everything that does not belong to the table should be removed from the table and the crumbs should be brushed off.

A brush is never used for this purpose, but a folded napkin or a silver crumb knife may be used, and the crumbs are brushed into a plate or a small tray.

LYV.: Since your older sister is married, you may leave the Christian name of your card if you choose, and call yourself "Miss Brown."

Yes, go with the boy, and when he speaks of love tell him he must not because you consider him only as a friend. If you are truthful to him and he still wants to go with you, you need not worry about results, because conditions will adjust themselves and come out right.

Four a small can of corn syrup in to a pan with one cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. Let boil until a hard ball is formed when tried in a glass of cold water. Then add a piece of butter the size of a walnut and a few drops of vanilla to flavor.

Empty a box of puffed rice into a pan and let crisp in oven. (Do not let it get brown.) Then pour this hot mixture or mix up the cooled puffed rice and mix until the rice sticks together. Form in flat balls.

This is an excellent Christmas candy to send to the soldiers.

THE TABLE

Stuffed Breast of Veal—Take four or five pounds veal breast, thick end, and save through but not through meat. When have been saved, through meat. When have been saved, through meat. When have been saved, through meat.

Wash carefully to remove all little hairs. Make filling by soaking four slices of dry bread, soaked off almost dry, add minced onion, pepper, salt, little nutmeg and parsley, one egg and any scrap of leftover meat if you have any. Mix well and stuff into pocket.

Soak one quart of raisins over night, drain and put on to parol in water in which a level teaspoon of soda has been dissolved; drain and rinse the soda off. Put on in clear water and cook till nearly done. Cut in four medium sized portions (more or less as desired). Mix one pound hamburger steak (in which a little pork has been ground) with cold or lukewarm water so that it will not be lumpy, then put in with beans; add one can tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste, and a little dash of red pepper added to improve the flavor.

Mother's Xmas Fruit Cake—One pound raisins, one pound currants, one pound figs, one pound dates, one pound English walnuts, one-quarter pound citron, one-quarter pound lemon peel, one pound brown sugar, one cup butter, four eggs, one cup sour milk, one nutmeg, one tablespoon cinnamon, one tablespoon cloves, four cups flour sifted four times, one dessertspoon soda added dry.

Fruit and nuts should be well dredged with flour and added last. This will make two good sized cakes and the older the cake the better it tastes.

Graham Pudding—A dessert for wheatless and sugarless days. Two cups graham flour, one cup sour seed, raisins, one cup chopped suet, one teaspoon soda dissolved in a little hot water, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg and one-half teaspoon salt. Steam two hours in buttered dish. Serve with hot corn sirup or any pudding sauce.

Chronic Rheumatism

Liniments are, as welcome to the man with rheumatism, so called; as the flowers in spring. But liniments are so messy and no more around the house. Ointments, after all, do not help arthritis much. A solidified liniment in a collapsible tube is much more clean and at least as efficient as a horrible concoction in a bottle. Here is the formula for one that gives much satisfaction:

Menthol..... 5 grains
Oil of Wintergreen..... 40 drops
Petrolatum..... 1/2 ounce
This should be dispensed in a collapsible tube. Menthol irritates the eyes, but or you can extend the tube after rubbing it in well, cover the part with some oiled silk or wax paper and a bandage.

Chronic rheumatism is a disease for pessimists to suffer. We get by that to imply that an optimist will get busy before his rheumatism has gone so far, and find out what is the matter. An optimist is a person who, having lost an appendix, a gallstone and any other structures which the doctor may have designed on to the chance of getting the septic focus within the rheumatism comes. Optimists are rare. Liniments and electric eliminators are so common.

Liniments at any rate, have something to do with rheumatism, whereas water and electric eliminators have nothing to do with it.

Heat in various forms is a relief. Baking the affected joints in a hot air apparatus is the best way to apply heat. Hot water in the bath, Turkish baths, or cabinet sweat baths, taken at home.

No medicine that we know of is helpful for the many diseases masquerading as rheumatism. The dustless gland functions which have much to do with fighting infection.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Friend H. Had Better Watch Out.

And then, Friend H., is forty, too much overweight. He does office work and has a sedentary habit. He gets no exercise at all and thinks he hasn't time for any. (Mrs. B. Y. SWER—If he doesn't watch out Old Col. Senility of the Artillery will be Guards will draft Friend H. Forty fat, no use for exercise! It is a for-

AGAR-AGAR AND HOW IT WORKS.

I am a great sufferer from chronic constipation and was advised to take agar-agar, but I find it hard to take. I have learned of a water containing nothing but agar-agar and whole meal, which is said to be quite palatable. Do you consider it good?

ANSWER—Agar-agar is a product of a dried seaweed. It has the property of absorbing and holding a great deal of water, which makes it very palatable. It is a good food, and this offering bulk and stimulus to the intestine. We are unfamiliar with the water you mention. Why not include whole wheat dishes in your ordinary diet? Or wheat bran, for the same purpose?

children into the world to be cared for on Curtis's salary of $25 a week, she looked startled but repeated her axiom that the Lord sends and the Lord provides.

It is not understandable to me why the exercise of common sense and self-control so that one's family may not be harassed beyond the bounds of one's ability to provide for them is a defiance of God. By the same token, why isn't the same sort of defiance when we try to prevent accidents and illnesses? Surely they come from the same supernatural agency. I am forgiven, even expected to guard against typhoid fever by scientific means. But to refuse to bear more children than my physical state can endure, or decline to go on having them for somebody else to support and educate, is called wicked by such minds as my mother-in-law's. And she is called a good woman. Who was it said "It is the good people who do all the harm in this world?"

So much for my troubles!

I was tickled to death to learn about G.'s dining at home with you and Paul. Paul's a wonder. Me for him! You don't half appreciate your blessings. It was a brilliantly clever thing, his forcing you to see G. at a disadvantage. For once you saw him as he really is. I hope you're cured of him. It was late in November, and the day was dull and dreary. It was toward dusk.

Two people sat apart in their almost empty, cold dining room. They were the help, the state of misery known only to those in extreme poverty.

He, gaunt and hollow-eyed, they sat, their faces pale as paper. He, after a fruitless search for work. One night in many.

Suddenly, a light footstep was heard outside the door, which afterwards opened.

A beautiful face peered in; after which came the rest of her. The lovely girl came down a passage upon the covey table. She looked at the two poverty-stricken beings with pity in her eyes divine pity.

She spoke. "We heard you were in trouble so I have brought you these things," and she opened the package. After casting but one glance upon the piano scarf, three hand-painted menu cards, a bottle of Goulash Cough Drops and a box of four-pointed footpicks, the two unfortunate beings continued to gaze stonily ahead.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS APPEAL TO CONGRESS

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Washington, Dec. 11.—The national American Women Suffrage association came to the doors of congress today respectfully demanding, not pleading, for a federal suffrage amendment.

At a meeting with New York's latest won votes to be arbiter of presidents, the conservative, anti-picketing organization opened its annual convention here.

Democratic party leaders will be reminded that with the large electoral vote from New York and the other suffrage states, women may easily reward or punish the party which act on what they now seek most—action without entrenchment. This is the same stand taken by the Woman's Party militants who have been hunger-striking in the local jail.

Every effort is being made to gain the support of President Wilson to national action, so far ineffectively.

The suffragists are certain of a majority of both houses but whether they can gain two thirds of the members to vote for a federal amendment is doubtful. Congressional leaders plan to devote one day to a suffrage hearing.

Penny Pinching Not Always True Economy

I have learned that the intelligent housewife—the woman schooled in really scientific domestic economy—no longer throws away a nickel to save a penny.

A good way to illustrate this point would be through comparison of baking powders.

Experience has taught me—and millions of other women that it doesn't pay to buy cheap baking powders. They cost a few cents less, but in the long run they are decidedly the most expensive. Because of the low grade materials employed in their manufacture they cause many bake day failures—and great loss of expensive ingredients. The housewife throws out, in wasted materials many times the amount saved on the cost of the baking powder. This is not economy, but extravagance.

True economy in baking powder demands the highest quality at the lowest price. Only baking powders that meet these demands should be used. Only baking powder that is made of the highest class ingredients so perfectly proportioned that it not only produces maximum leavening power but also preserves it.

Besides, the baking powder that meets the modern demand for economy should be economical in use—full strength—economical in cost—secured at a moderate price. The housewife should be able to effect a saving when buying—and another saving when using—and she should save materials it is used with.

That is economy in its highest form. Complete economy. The only kind of economy the housewife should attempt.

I have proved positively by exhaustive experiments and comparative tests that Calumet Baking Powder is best suited to these savings. It possesses the sturty, the purity and goodness that make constant employment of utmost baking economy possible.

MAZOLA

—the pure oil from corn for better cooking

WHEN housewives first adopted Mazola they found the deep frying, sautéing and shortening medium which they have been seeking for years.

Mazola browns food quickly, preventing any penetration of oil—and gives crisp, delicious dishes free from sogginess, easy to digest. The results are so much better than with lard or compounds that Mazola is used in thousands of American homes.

And now when Food Administrator Hoover asks us to save butter, lard and suet, the housewife knows that she has a really good vegetable oil.

With Mazola she can help save the country's resources and at the same time give her family the best of food at a notable saving in cost.

Unlike other mediums Mazola does not transmit taste or odor from one food to another—can be used over and over again—a great factor in economy.

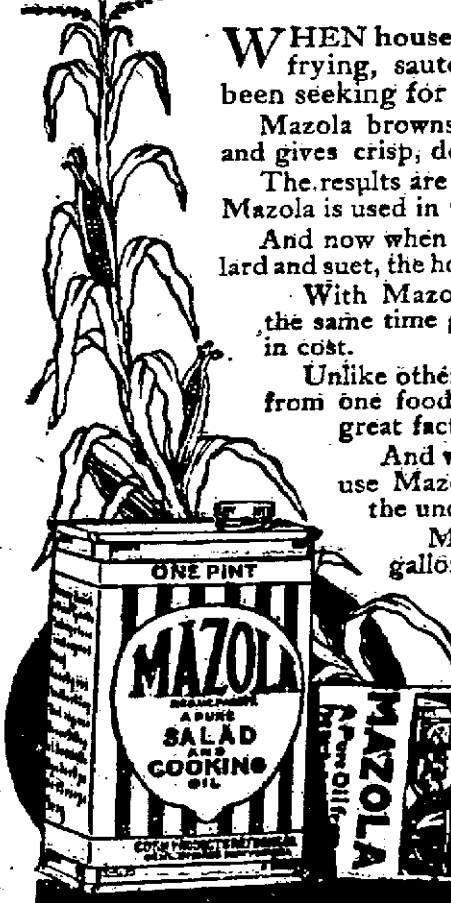

And when you want an especially delicious salad dressing, use Mazola. There is no need to give up salads because of the uncertain supply or high prices of olive oil.

Mazola can be had from your grocer in pint, quart, half-gallon and gallon tins. Ask him for the free Mazola Book of Recipes, or write us direct.

Your money refunded if Mazola does not give entire satisfaction.

King of the Khyber Rifles

A Romance of Adventure

By TALBOT MUNDY

(Copyright by Bobbe-Merrill Company)

King did not answer him. He could only be still and be glad he had set the camp moving and so had forced the mullah's hand. "The old fatalist would have suspected her answer otherwise," he told himself, for he knew that he himself suspected it.

While he and the mullah watched the tents began to fall and the women labored to roll them. The men began firing their rifles, and within the hour enough ammunition had been squandered to have fought a good-sized skirmish; but the mullah did not mind, for he had Khinjan caves in view, and none knew better than he what vast store of cartridges and dynamite was piled in there. He let them waste.

Watching his opportunity, King slipped down the ramp and into the crowd, while the mullah was busy with personal belongings in the cave. King left his own belongings to the fates, or to any thief who should care to steal them. He was safe from the mullah in the midst of his nearly eighty men, who half believed him a savior from the skies.

"We see! We see!" they yelled and danced around him.

Before ever the mullah gave an order they got under way and started climbing the steep valley wall. The mullah on his brown mule thrust forward, trying to get in the lead, and King and his men hung back, to keep at a distance from him. Two or three miles along the top of the escarpment the mullah sent back word that he wanted the hakim to be beside him. But King's men treated the messenger to open scorn and sent him packing.

"Bid the mullah hunt himself another hakim! Be that his hakim! Stay, we will give thee a lesson in how to use a knife!"

The man ran, lest they carry out their threat, for men joke grimly in the "Hills."

Ismael came and held King's stirrup, striding beside him with the easy hill-man gait.

"Art thou my man at last?" King asked him, but Ismael laughed and shook his head.

"I am her man," King asked.

"Nay, who am I that I should know?" "But she sent thee?" "Aye, she sent me."

"To what purpose?" "To her purpose," the Afridi answered, and King could not get another word out of him. He fell behind.

sent Ismael for that purpose. It was likely that her course would depend on his. If he failed, she was done with him. If he succeeded in establishing a strong position of his own, she would yield. With or without Ismael's aid, with or without his enmity, he must control his eighty men and give the slip to the mullah, and he went at once about the best way to do both.

"We will go now," he said quietly. "That sentry in yonder shadow has his back turned. He has overheard. We will rush him and put good running between us and the mullah."

Surprised into obedience, and too delighted at the prospect of action to wonder why they should obey a hakim so, they slung on their bandoliers and made ready. Ismael brought up King's horse and he mounted. And then at King's word all eighty made a sudden swoop on the drowsy sentry and took him unawares. They tossed him over the cliff, too startled to scream an alarm; and though sentries on either hand heard them and shouted, they were gone like wind-blown ghosts of dead men before the mullah even knew what was happening.

They did not halt until not one of them could run another yard, King trusting to his horse to find a footing along the cliff-tops, and to the men to find the way.

CHAPTER XXII.

"Whither?" one whispered to King. "To Khinjan!" he answered; and that was enough. Each whispered to the other, and they all became fired with curiosity more potent than money bribes.

When he halted at last and dismounted and sat down and the struggles caught up, panting, they held a council of war all together, with Ismael sitting at King's back and leaning a chin on his shoulder in order to hear better. Bone pressed on bone, and the place grew numb; King shook him off a dozen times; but each time Ismael set his chin back on the same spot, as a dog will that listens to his master. Yet he insisted he was her man, and not King's.

"Now, ye men of the 'Hills,'" said King, "listen to me who am political-offender - with - reward - for - capture - offered - That was a gem of a title. It fired their imaginations. 'I know things that no soldier would find out in a thousand years, and I will tell you some of what I know.'"

Now he had to be careful. If he were to invent too much they might denounce him as a traitor to the "Hills" in general. If he were to tell them too little they would lose interest and might very well desert him at the first pinch. He must feel for the middle way and upset no prejudices.

"She has discovered that this mullah Muhammad Anim is no true muslim, but an unbelieving dog of a foreigner from Parangistan! She has discovered that he plans to make himself an emperor in these hills, and to sell hillmen into slavery!" Might as well serve the mullah up hot while about it! Beyond any doubt not much more than a mile away the mullah was getting even by condemning the lot of them to death. "An eye for the risk of an eye!" said the unforgiving "Hills."

"If one of us should go back into his camp now he would be tortured. Be sure of that." Breathing deeply in the darkness, they nodded, as if the dark had eyes. Ismael's chin drove a fraction deeper into his shoulder.

"Now ye know—for all men know—that the entrance into Khinjan caves is free to any man who can tell a lie without flinching. It is the way out again that is not free. How many men do ye know that have entered and never returned?"

They all nodded again. It was common knowledge that Khinjan was a very graveyard of the presumptuous. "She has set a trap for the mullah. She will let him and all his men enter and will never let them out again!"

"How knowest thou?" This from two men, one on either hand. "Was I never in Khinjan caves?" he retorted. "Whence came I? I am her man, sent to help trap the mullah! I would have trapped all of you, but for being weary of these 'Hills' and wishful to go back to India and be pardoned! That is who I am! That is how I know!"

Their breath came and went silently, and the darkness was alive with the excitement they thought themselves too warrior-like to utter.

"But what will she do then?" asked somebody.

King searched his memory, and in a moment there came back to him a picture of the hurrying jezailchi he had held up in the Khyber pass, and recollection of the man's words.

"Know ye not," he said, "that long ago she gave leave to all who ate salt to be true to the salt? She gave the Khyber jezailchis leave to fight against her. Be sure, whatever she does, she will stand between no man and his pardon!"

"But will she lead a jihad? We will not fight against her!" "Nay," said King, drawing his breath in. Ismael's chin felt like a knife against his collar bone, and Ismael's iron fingers clutched his arm. It was time to give his hostage to Dame Fortune. "She will go down into India and use her influence in the matter of the pardons!"

"I believe thou art a very great liar indeed!" said the man who lacked part of his nose. "The Pathan went, and he did not come back. What proof have we?"

"Ye have me!" said King. "If I show you no proof, how can I escape you?"

They all granted agreement as to that. King used his elbow to hit Ismael in the ribs. He did not dare speak to him; but now was the time for Ismael to carry information to her, supposing that to be his job. And after a minute Ismael rolled into a shadow and was gone. King gave him twenty minutes' start, letting his men rest their legs and exercise their tongues.

Now that he was out of the mullah's clutches—and he suspected Yasmimi would know of it within an hour or two, and before dawn in any event—he began to feel like a player in a game of chess who foresees his opponent made in so many moves.

If Yasmimi were to let the mullah and his men into the caves and to join forces with him in there, he would at least have time to hurry back to India with his eighty men and give warning. He might have time to call up the Khyber jezailchis and blockade the caves before the hive could swarm, and he chuckled to think of the hope of that.

On the other hand, if there was to be a battle royal between Yasmimi and the mullah, he would be there to watch it and to comfort India with the news. "Now we will go on again, in order to be close to Khinjan at break of day," he said, and they all got up and obeyed him as if his word had been law to them for years. Of all of them he was the only man in doubt—he who seemed most confident of all.

They swung along into the darkness under low-hung stars, trailing behind King's horse, with only half a dozen of them a hundred yards or so ahead as an advance guard, and all of them expecting to see Khinjan loom above each next valley, for distances and darkness are deceptive in the "Hills," even to trained eyes. Suddenly the advance guard halted, but did not shoot. And as King caught up with them he saw they were talking with someone.

He had to ride up close before he recognized the Orakzai Pathan. "Salaam!" said the fellow with a grin. "I bring one hundred and eleven!"

As he spoke graveyard shadows rose out of the darkness around and leaned on rifles.

"Be ye men all ex-soldiers of the raj?" King asked them.

"Aye!" they growled in chorus. "Who gave you leave to come?" King asked.

Dinner Stories

"Do you want the leaves raked off your grass?" asked the boy, as he rang the door bell of a house.

"Why, we haven't got any," replied the woman.

"Oh, but you've got four big baskets of leaves out here," protested the boy. "Yes, another boy dumped 'em here early this morning, and I'll carry 'em off for a nickel!"

Jack Jones was showing his father and mother the sights to be seen on one of the latest battleships. The old lady, after asking numerous questions, suddenly spotted a squad of marines lined up ready for inspection by the officer. She pounced suddenly on the sturdy seaman and said:

"Whatever do they keep a regiment of soldiers on board for?"

The old man turned round fiercely on his wife and said:

"Maria, don't show your ignorance so much. You ought to know very well what these marines are for; they are kept for the sailors to spin yarns to."

The subject that the whale and the teacher who had given a lesson on the same subject a week previously, was anxious to see how much the children remembered. But they seemed never to have heard of a whale before, and were extraordinarily stupid.

"Come, come!" cried the teacher. "What do we do with whalebones?" "There was a minute's silence, then a small hand was raised for inspection by the officer. "We leaves 'em on the side of our plates!"

"Edward, you disobeyed your grandmother when she told you just now not to jump down those stairs." "Grandma didn't tell us not to, papa. She only came to the door and said: 'I wouldn't jump down those stairs, boys,' and I shouldn't think she would, an old lady like her."

MANY RECORDS ARE SMASHED BY ALLIED AVIATORS AT FRONT

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Paris, Nov. 11.—So many speed and distance records have been shattered and set in the last ten days by allied aviators that it is doubtful if the best performance will ever be straightened out and set down on the official books.

But aviators have been flying from points in England in France to the Italian front every day, as the British and French war officers have outdone themselves in their efforts to relieve the French aviation service. Pilots just landed and there were a certain number of Americans among them—scored in the air, and following the lead of an instructor or some veteran aviator, set their course for Italy.

Months who had not sat in an aeroplane two months before duplicated the feat of Roland Garros which started the world a few years ago, they traversed the Italian Alps, flights of four, five and six hundred miles without stop were common occurrences. And in all cases the average speed maintained was considered more than 100 miles an hour.

General Cadorna's first reconnaissance in the French and British was made in aeroplanes and German aircraft had assembled their best fighting squadrons on the Italian front. The German formation was practically cleared the air of Italian fighting aircraft. They followed up this advantage by sending over into the Italian lines squadron after squadron of bombing machines. Incendiary bombs and aerial torpedoes were used in the Italian aviation fields and the hangars and Italian aircraft burned together.

Both the French and British general staffs realized that without the "eyes" of the Italian army might wander into traps and pitfalls. And they gave the order at once to reinforce the Italian aviation service with their own squadrons. The order went out to all of the aviation camps and squadrons in England and France. Within a few hours the orders were being executed. Pilots having passed their brevets were mustered out on the fields. They were told to wear their leather flying uniform suits instead of the single garment they usually wear. The gas-line tanks were filled and they were instructed to follow the leader. They were sent off in long columns, all heading toward the Italian Alps.

Some of the British machines went clear across England, reversed the channel, then soared over France and Italy. They proceeded straight on to the Tagliamento line without ever descending. French machines flew from remote corners of the republic over the mountains of Lombardy to fall on the Italian lines before the Italian forces were forced to retreat from that strategic railway center.

It quickly became known that the number of aeroplanes that were sent from France and England, but it can be stated that the number of aeroplanes sent was the average total for a day of the big aviation school.

NATIONAL LEAGUE TO CUT GAME SCHEDULE
New York, Dec. 11.—Because of Gov. Tener's calm and firm stand against requesting the Government for special exemption for ball players, the National league began its meeting here today more firmly entrenched in favor of the public than for many a day.

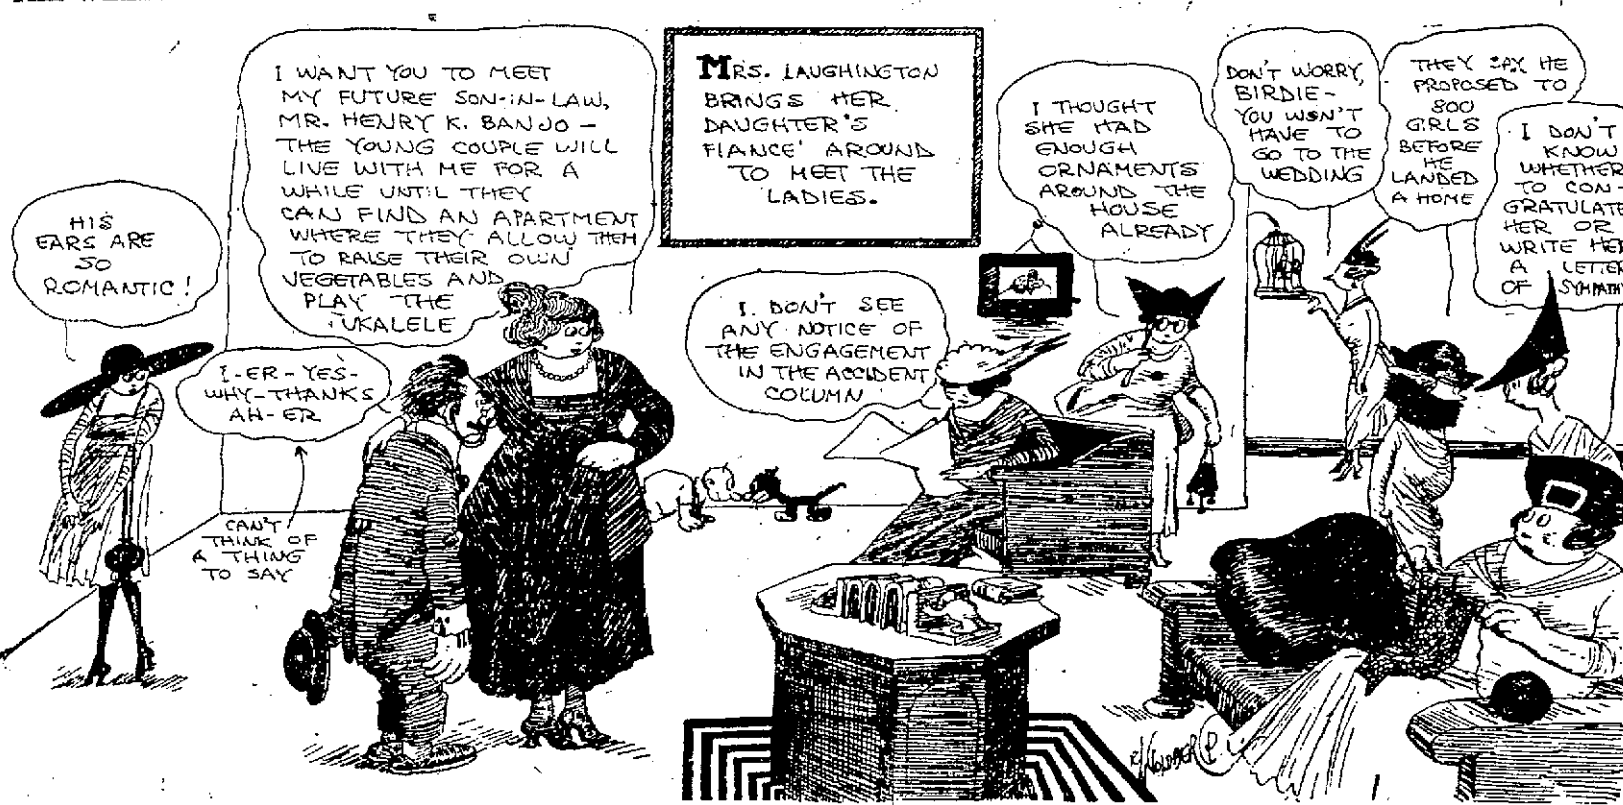

Differences that may come up over other matters will be trilled at this meeting compared to the gloom of uncertainty that is sure to be carried into Waldorf by clubowners who are certain to lose many ball players. But the National league has taken its stand of helping the Government, and no one expects the smallest whimper to issue from the lips of the eight owners who control the elder baseball body.

The election of Gov. Tener is one thing that will go before the meeting and it is a certainty it will carry. Gov. Tener's salary also will be increased in spite of the hard spots that are roasting themselves in the path of the national game.

Some argument will be brought to the fore—perhaps a cost of Gov. Tener's strength, for there is a certain amount of agitation for a shortened schedule next year. "Business as usual," however, is a slogan Gov. Tener has declared for the National league. He wants to play the usual 154 games and is in favor of that plan for both big leagues. In view of the fact that Ban Johnson of the American league has declared in favor of a curtailed program calling for only 140 it is probable there will be some opposition in the National's meeting to clinging to the old form.

President Hobbs of the Brooklyn club, for instance, is in favor of dropping a few games from the schedule. The Brooklyn club has found it hard to meet expenses for the increased years, and a reduced schedule would materially reduce the drain on that club's treasury. Gov. Tener's strength is believed will carry the league into more into the old numbers of games, regardless of what the sentiment in the American league will be. Schedule clashes are certain if the American league follows out Ban Johnson's advice to cut and slash expenses, for a schedule clash will be the first thing to make its appearance tomorrow at Chicago when the American league holds its meeting.

THE WEEKLY MEETING OF THE TUESDAY LADIES' CLUB

BADGERS WIN CLOSE GAME FROM BELOIT

Badgers Outplayed by Beloit But Lose 26 to 21.—Chandler and Simpson Save Varsity From Defeat.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Dec. 11.—Entering the game in the last ten minutes of play, Captain Chandler and Simpson saved Wisconsin from a humiliating defeat by Beloit in the first game of the basketball season. Up until the last few minutes of play neither team showed any signs of life. Beloit, using short passes, bewildered the Badgers. However, they fell down on the offense. The game was quiet. There were no cheer leaders or cheers to warm the shivering crowd that brave the cold winds to see Wisconsin play the first game of the basketball season. Neither Simpson nor Chandler have practiced to any extent with the team this year. Simpson showed old time form and swept everything before him. Chandler was brilliant in his individual dashes. Maisel showed up good at forward.

Although it was the first game of the season, Wisconsin was weaker than it has been for a long time. The effect of the war was plainly visible in the lack of strong and experienced men. Wisconsin was not up to her usual standard.

Sport Snap Shots

MORRIS MILLER

Napoleon Lajoie, one of the grand old men of baseball, at present manager of the Toronto club, led the international league this year with a mark of 396. Lajoie, who played with Baltimore for a part of the recent season, finished the year with a mark of 396, but as Lajoie took part in only twenty-nine games, Lajoie is considered the real leader of the league. Ross Young, farmed out by the Giants to Rochester this year, trailed Lajoie with an average of 356, and Turner Barber, purchased by the Cubs from Baltimore in the fall, hit at a .352 clip. There were in all twenty-three men in the international league who hit .300 or better. Toronto and Baltimore were tied for the lead in club batting, each team averaging .283 with the stick. The Buffalo team was the lightest hitting outfit in the circuit and compiled a mark of only .249.

Harry Seibold, the Athletics' little right handed pitcher, who made an excellent record this year, has gone into the national army. Connie Mack's youngest son, Ray, has enlisted as a yeoman at the Charlestown Navy Yard. The Athletics now have lost five men in the army draft—Pitcher Seibold, Noyes and Naylor, Third Baseman Ray Bates and Outfielder Ralph Shorman. Mack says he will not be surprised if the government sends four or five more in the next draft, which means that he will have to get out and hustle for a dozen new recruits.

While everybody is howling calamity as to the sport situation in the United States it is interesting to read that sports have had a big boom in England in the last year, in spite of all the war that country has been against, and that baseball has taken a foothold that is likely to be lasting. Who knows, the sensible English may be playing baseball after we have abolished it in the states and a war measure, under a policy that seems to demand that everybody put on sackcloth and ashes and prepare for the end of the world.

Patsy Cline apparently is trying to outdo Benny Leonard in celerity of knockout. Leonard, some weeks ago stopped Eddie Wagon in five rounds and Cline performed the same feat in three rounds.

Report from Vernon has it that Jack Lelivelt, former outfielder with various American league and American Association teams, is a favored candidate to succeed George Stoval as manager of the Vernon Tigers. Lelivelt's last engagement was with Kansas City.

Recently Bush and Grover Alexander, the great pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, shot a match race at 150 targets and it resulted in a tie, each breaking 127.

A Cincinnati writer figures big things from Hal Chase in a batting slump this season. He argues that Chase has a batting slump every other season and that 1917 was his slump year. Therefore he is to hit around the top in 1918.

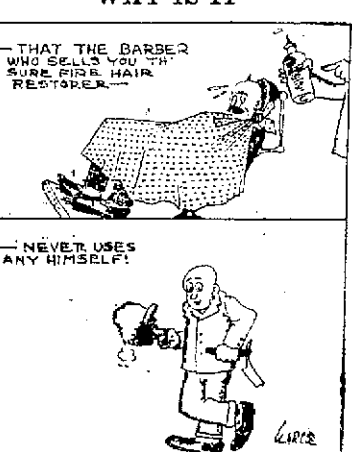

The report that waivers have been asked and secured on Le Magee by the St. Louis Browns was denied by officials of the club and it was said that those hopes that Magee might come back enough to show as a second baseman for the Browns next year.

Dick O'Brien, Cincinnati's hope in the heavyweight class, prides himself on the possession of a reach two and a half inches longer than that of Wildard. O'Brien's future largely depends on what he has behind the reach.

Charlie Babbington, the former Brown University player, who was given a trial by the Giants in 1916, hit .310 in the New York State league this year and may soon be on his way back to the majors.

Hugh Beddeck, manager of the Pirates, is coming east to be close to the scene of action in baseball during the winter. Beddeck is also football coach at the University of Oregon.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Dec. 11.—The Highway Trailer Company is in receipt of a government contract for some 200 trailers of the four wheel type. These trailers are to be of from two to five ton capacity and the order will keep the plant busy for some time to come. President Menhall has found it necessary to secure more factory space and the company has leased the American Tobacco Co.'s warehouse, where an additional crew will be put at work as soon as the building can be put in shape. These trailers are to be known as liberty trailers and will be shipped to various places as soon as they are assembled. It is intimated that as soon as this order is completed another will follow, as the government will use a great many of these machines.

Every citizen of Edgerton and vicinity has fully realized that he has a duty to perform in regard to contributions to the various needs of the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., K. C. and other funds which have been solicited in the city and will have to have more funds in the near future. In order that such duty may not become a burden, some well conceived plan to effect a saving of time, effort and convenience should be adopted before another call comes for war relief funds. Four things should be eliminated. They are:

1st. The inconvenience of repeated solicitation.

2nd. Wastefulness of time and energy in separate drives and conflicting purposes.

3rd. Unfair apportionments or unworthy levies.

4th. Inequality in contributions.

The general principal of such plan is that each person pledge a certain sum payable once a month or quarterly as long as the war lasts.

It is desirable that every citizen of Edgerton give this matter his most careful consideration so that some plan can be devised that will work harmoniously and will be fair to all. The soldiers' monument circle will hold their Christmas bazaar and chicken pie supper at the T. A. B. hall Thursday, Dec. 13th. The articles at the bazaar will not be as numerous this year owing to financial conditions. Sale at 3 p. m.; supper from 5 until all are served.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Wesdonk and son George are Chicago visitors for a few days. The young ladies' society of the German Lutheran church met at the home of Miss Irene Dallman this evening.

Whitewater News

Whitewater, Dec. 11.—George Bloxham is very fortunate in being alive this morning, although it would be almost impossible for him to explain why he was not ground to pieces beneath the passenger train. He was on his way home from the farm and had reached the Janesville street railroad crossing about 5:30 last evening. Thinking that the train had gone by and being bundled up well he did not hear the whistle. He drove upon the crossing and was too late to get across when he saw the train. He tried to wheel sideways to escape but the animal was struck and killed and the buggy smashed to kindling. Mr. Bloxham was found beneath the wreckage and the only injury he received was a cut on the head. He is about seventy-five years of age, but will be about in a few days, although the shock of the accident was severe. At a meeting of the board last evening it was decided to close the auditorium of the Methodist church for the winter. Services will be held in the Sunday school room on the first floor.

Miss Hazel Winch and Miss Gladys Calkins spent from Friday till Sunday in Chicago.

Hert Schultz was called to Janesville today to see his wife, who is in a hospital in that city.

Herman Deiholt came up Saturday from Camp Grant and spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins.

Hornet an Ancient Insect. The hornet is a well-known insect even now in Palestine. Many of the Canaanites, as described in the Bible in Exodus 23:28; Deuteronomy 7:20; Joshua 24:12, were driven out before Israel by means of this insect.
